

The fusion sessions

Fusion; developing the healer and the clinician, the scientist and the artist.

The fusion sessions; what is it?

- ongoing support for homeopaths and naturopaths in practice
- the bridge to busy and thriving homeopathic and naturopathic practice in Australia, New Zealand, digitally and on-line.

So many homeopaths and naturopaths feel like they need more. More information, more remedies, just more. Many recent graduates speak of a lack of confidence in their skills. This is a program designed to consolidate the training that was begun as an undergraduate. The focus of the program is on running busy, meaningful and sustainable practices, and thus the Fusion Sessions are place to assist you through the initial years of the reality of practice and the practical aspects of homeopathy and naturopathy. This program provides the key identifiable qualities of a successful practitioner.

Fusion...to bring together; a bridge to the next phase of your naturopathic and homeopathic life; to join, to bring into communication two poles...to bring together

Fusion; integrating, learning and re-learning the best of the present and the past to be a thriving 21st century practitioner.

what you don't get is American style hard sell. Get this free but sign up here. You don't get new-age fringe disciplines around the practice of natural medicine to bulk out your practice, or recipes for conditions.

what you do get is a conversation about the realities of practice, what it is really like, professional satisfaction, professional gems from the best teachers. Its collaborative, fun, dynamic. If you want to learn or remind yourself what it takes to be a successful practitioner, learn the formula for a busy practice and have a satisfying professional life, then this program will enable you to achieve this. In the Fusion Sessions we model the thriving practice and practitioner.

The post graduate Fusion Sessions provided the bridge and the tools necessary for spanning the gap between being a homeopathic practitioner and running a successful business. Alastair in his own energetic individual style encouraged us to expand our boundaries, and delve into realms we either didn't know existed or were afraid to go. The course also brought together all the fragments that, for me, never fitted together, resulting in a clearer picture. Thanks Al for helping me to put the pieces together.

from Alastair Gray

Completing a post graduate course in homeopathy (Jeremy Sherr's Dynamis) was without doubt the best education I ever received. It took my homeopathy to a new level immediately practical and achievable.

From that background and from my 18 years in practice I can offer you my love of natural medicine, passion for developing the profession and experience in practice and commitment to creating confidence in my colleagues.

I want to invite you to a program of advanced study and practice. We study together. We grow together. We deepen your roots yet aspire to the ideals of cure. We aim for depth of understanding and breadth of techniques. Practical yet idealistic. The Fusion Sessions focus on truly becoming a healer, not just a technician.

So often in practice, it is not so much our clinical skills which are to be found wanting but rather a lack of confidence in one or many of the skills that go to make up a good prescriber; getting patients, keeping patients, and helping them along the way. But rather than a lack of skill, competence or technique, I argue that by addressing what they do best, practitioners can flourish and create successful and meaningful practices. It's the difference between knowing your homeopathy or naturopathy, and being a homeopath or a naturopath. Its not about skills, it's about an attitude. It is also acknowledging that the modern health practitioner is an information manager as well as prescriber. This is the ingredient often missing. Knowledge in itself is not enough.

These Fusion Sessions are devoted to:

1. Creating sustainable practices
2. Creating confident prescribers
3. Maintaining the passion

AND A THRIVING PRACTICE.

alastair gray

For 13 years Alastair Gray has run a general practice in the inner west and east of Sydney, and Auckland New Zealand. There is a lot of traveling, with patients and lecturing. In 2008 for example, after 67 flights and 135,000 kilometres, (off-set with carbon credits) he delivered 380 lectures over 4 continents. That seems to be a normal year.

In New Zealand he lectures for the Bay of Plenty College of Homeopathy and the Wellington College of Homeopathy. In Australia, it's the Sydney College of Homeopathic Medicine, Australasian College of Natural Therapies and Nature Care College in Sydney. He is also a regular seminar presenter in Kuala Lumpur for the Homeopathic Academy Council of Malaysia, and he holds their PCHom. Alastair has also regularly presented and lectured in Toronto Canada, Boulder Colorado and San Francisco; in Galway Ireland, Preston and Nottingham England and Bangkok Thailand.

Trained in the UK at the School of Homeopathy he completed his postgraduate work at the Dynamis School in London. It is this grounding in Homeopathy plus his diverse background that permeates his work. He has a degree in history and a fascination with medical and homeopathic history. His experience as a bodyworker and a background in Gestalt Therapy and archery all contributes to his practice and presentations. His particular passion is in reconciling the differences and identifying and celebrating the similarities between methodologies in Homeopathic Medicine; moreover integrating homeopathic medicine and philosophy in the broader context of health care. In addition, Alastair has a commitment to quality research in Homeopathy and has conducted a number of provings.

He has published four books and numerous articles on the provings of White Tailed Spider, Box Jelly Fish, Moreton Bay Fig, Tea Tree, Waratah, Liquorice, Cockroach, Bufo, Seahorse, Cactus, Kowhai, Pearl, Mosquito, Kauri, Irukandji, and Tar Tree. He runs and teaches the residential Fusion Sessions, a Post Graduate program in Homeopathy, offered in New Zealand and Australia.

He is completing his masters from the UCLan in the UK.
